“Which One is Disabled?”

All of the non-physical characteristics of the two people displayed on the front of this card reveal more about their real disabilities than any first impression we would make about them just by viewing a snapshot of their body.

Matt Glowacki's Diversity Training occurs as he educates people about the nature of true disability. How a real disability is not a physical not imitation, but it is failure to recognize content of character in others as we are trying to recognize potential.

People use the first impressions of others to make life long judgments about others quality of life. When people recognize difference in others and assign lower quality of life to it, that is prejudice.

Allow Matt to breakdown the Prejudice which is rampant in communities that don't embrace Diversity. Bring Matt to your campus to teach everyone how to decipher a person's true character.
